As cancer care costs steadily rise, innovations in oncology care management and payer-provider payment reform remain a critical imperative for key stakeholders. Now in its 13th year, CBI's Value-Based Oncology Management Forum convenes payers, providers, PBMs, manufacturers and specialty pharmacies to examine current challenges and share best practices to control costs, reduce variation in care and improve patient outcomes.

• Examine the results to date of the Oncology Care Model in terms of impact on cost and quality of care
• Evaluate the role of molecular testing in value-based models
• Review of the oncology drug development pipeline and current indications for 2019 and beyond
• Consider the impact of (CAR)-T cell therapy on oncology cost management
• Discuss the impact of market dynamics, public policy and hospital consolidations on community cancer clinics and site of care demand
• Leverage big data to generate actionable clinical insights and make better informed treatment plans
• Assess the impact of oncology value frameworks on managed care decision-making
• Explore how to structure specialty pharmacy practices to promote collaboration with providers, patients, and payers to provide patient centered oncology care
• Advance palliative care models that encompass payers and providers
• Update on the status of 340B and its potential impact on prescription drug access and affordability
